

AGENDA

FUTURE OF ELECTRONIC WASTE MANAGEMENT IN CALIFORNIA STAKEHOLDER WORKSHOP Part 2

Wednesday, March 15, 2017

10:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m.

Coastal Hearing Room Cal/EPA Headquarters Building
1001 I Street, Sacramento

The purpose of today's workshop is to engage stakeholders in a discussion concerning the future of electronic waste collection and management in California. This is the second workshop focused on CalRecycle's initiative to examine current conditions and future options for electronic waste management in California. To date, California's existing electronic waste management program has been highly successful in collecting and properly handling covered electronic waste (CEW) by fostering an extensive collection and recycling network, relieving local jurisdictions and businesses of the costs of managing these wastes, and providing convenient collection opportunities for all generators. However, as we reflect on the successes of the past, we necessarily must consider whether the current approaches to e-waste management will be as effective in the future.

The first workshop held September 14, 2016, featured a panel of stakeholders representing a range of California perspectives followed by small group discussions to explore potential models and identify elements that are vital to the success of any program approach. (See Presentations and informal notes from the September workshop.)

Today's workshop will begin with a brief CalRecycle staff overview of the project status, followed by an in-depth discussion of the background documents prepared for today's conversation. Please note that these documents are NOT CalRecycle policy proposals to adjust the existing CEW system. Instead, they are responsive to input at the previous workshop and intended for discussion purposes, using a specific product category to illustrate the issues that would need to be considered before moving forward with any specific proposal.
